Playback Theatre

Moments of our lives can be touchstones, full of power and significance. Playback Theatre transforms personal stories told by audience members into theatre pieces on the spot using movement, ritual, music, and spoken improvisation. Sometimes a story becomes myth, sometimes a realistic enactment: some stories are tragic, others are funny or illuminating.

The Training

Workshop participants will learn the subtleties of the Playback Theatre form, acquire or refine acting and improvisation skills, and share in the often profound experience of hearing each other's stories and bringing them to life. The Playback process helps develop intuition, insight, creativity, and effective communication. It also creates community and connection among people by honoring the dignity, drama, and universality in their stories.

Previous theatre experience is helpful but not required. This training is for actors, teachers, therapists, or anyone interested in creating art from the specific and universal in our experience. Shy people are welcome!
